Showcase House

SHOWCASE

upland home gets face lift

The spacious two-story home of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Prusia has been selected as the site for the Sixth Annual Showcase House in Upland, a benefit project for the Children's Home Society of California.

Four area auxiliaries of CHS — Casa Alegre in Upland, Claremont Auxiliary, Cradle Guild of La Verne and Covina and Les Gardiens of Diamond Bar-Walnut — have joined forces to arrange for and sponsor this year's tour.

The time of the tour has been greatly expanded over past years, with the home to be open six days a week through May 20. Hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekends. The home will not be open on Mondays.

The $5 donation will benefit children through adoption, education, respite care, foster care, group home care, and pregnancy/child-parent counseling. Group rates are available.

Originally built in 1913, the two-story, 3,800-square-foot home is surrounded by citrus and avocado trees and gardens.

Design firms donated services and materials to offer ideas for remodeling, landscaping and redecorating.

Now located at 1890 Palomino in Upland, the home originally was built by the Pioneer Roofing Co. of Los Angeles and was nestled in seven acres of lemon groves. In those days, the entrance to the home was off of Mountain Avenue, attainable by a circular drive with the house facing south. Today, the entrance is to the north and access is on the west side of the property on Palomino.

The historic home was built as a country retreat for the Eichenberg family, who for some unknown reason only spent one week in the house and never returned. They left everything there, including linens and dishes, and for 27 years, the home was occupied only by a caretaker.

Then, in 1940 Beecher Hungerford, who was involved in real estate and insurance, purchased the house as an investment. For many years, the residence was rented to the Grimesey family. For a period after World War II the house was empty, in fact no one lived there until 1953. So for 40 years the house had little wear because no one lived there. Unfortunately, it was heavily vandalized during the last period it sat idle.

In 1953, the Roland Brownsberger family, the John Prices and the Charles Martinis purchased the house and surrounding groves, with the Martini family living in the dwelling.

Originally, the house had a fuel oil heating system, which was deemed unsafe in 1953, so the Martinis heated the home with the fireplace and a wood stove. Then the Martinis' niece, Sally Prusia, and her husband Sterling "Skip" Prusia bought the home in 1973. They made several changes and along with the help of Showcase are doing further renovations.

Wrought-iron fencing surrounds the property, which is located just ¼ of a block west of Mountain Avenue off of 19th Street. Entering across a walkway lined with stones, the visitor continues through a new breezeway that has been added to the enclosed reception room, which has a brick floor and wood ceiling, and continues into the French provincial-country-style living room.

Interesting highlights of the Prusia home include pine woodwork, oak floors, strained glass overlay, antiques of all kinds including a Teddy Bear collection and a large doll dressed in an antique christening dress in an antique buggy.

The garage has been transformed into a studio room of three levels that faces a stone patio and tile fountain. There also is a stone firepit with curved stone bench and steps leading to a wood deck with a hot tub. Mrs. Prusia designed the decking area, which she and her husband built.

A new greenhouse room, built by Bob Chapman, now acts as a solar buffer for the west end of the house, which used to be too cold in the winter and too warm in the summer. The outside entrance to this room has an old school bell and door knocker. The old servants' entrance door now leads from this room into the kitchen area, which also is accessible by an outside door, which has the original triangle and bent hammer which was used to call ranch hands in for meals.

The kitchen area itself has new wood and tile floors and is enlarged to include part of what used to be a back hall and service porch areas. A wall to the servants' bedroom was removed and that room now serves as a sitting room that opens into the kitchen, which features stained glass doors on the cupboards. "Skip" Prusia made the doors.

There are many other interesting features to the 1984 Showcase House, some original items and some innovative ones created by the home owners and the designers.

Designers donating their services for Showcase include: Penny Marino of Upland, entry; Today's Interiors of Diamond Bar, living room; Rose Ann Beseth and Pat Gousha of Ontario, dining room; Creative Interiors of Upland, kitchen; Cal Poly Pomona design students, lower powder room; Karinne's Creative Design of Upland, lower and upper halls and staircases; Mary Blood of Ontario, upper hall bath; Chaffey College students, daughter's bedroom; Kathy Danko of Upland, master bedroom; Sheryl Bell of Glendora, bedroom two; Grace Grody and Nancy Fitzgibbons, bath between bedrooms; Bonnie Martel of Cucamonga, boys' bedroom; Nettle Creek Shop of Pasadena, sun porch converted to sewing room; Carol West and Diane Shelton of Chino, guest room; and California Game and Dinette of Upland, outside studio.

George Parisi of Hacienda Heights is acting as consultant for the renovations being done outside the home by the following landscapers: entry, brick patio with overhead is being designed by architecture students from Cal Poly Pomona, while the overhead structure was built by Skyline Construction of Etiwanda and the brick patio by Art Braeger Landscape; patio, Orton Associates of Upland; firepit and bench, Brosch Masonry; greenhouse room, Tryon, Tryon Architect of South Pasadena; ticket booth, C & E Lumber of Pomona; plants, greenhouse room by George's Upland Flower Shop, and deck, Mt. Fuji Nursery, Upland; and entry gates, Valley Ornamental Iron of Upland.

Children's Home Society was founded in 1891. Operating on the premise that "every child needs a loving home," volunteers sponsor fund-raising events to finance a variety of needs.

Mrs. Charles Job of the Claremont auxiliary is chairman of Showcase House '84. Auxiliary presidents are Elaine Newton of Claremont, Joanne McAleer of Casa Alegre, Cathy Dolbar of Les Gardiens and Lora Lee Russell of Cradle Guild. □

Pen pals bound by ink and paper

By Terri Tirella

Ink and paper seem to be fragile elements with which to bind people together, but they were all Upland resident Liz Allen and her pen pal Elaine Newton needed to cement their lives.

The two women met face-to-face for the first time in their 20 years of correspondence when the Newtons made a trip to the United States with a planned Upland stop, spending most of last week visiting local tourist attractions and staying at Allens' home.

The women were matched as pen pals through an agency called "People to People," which they both read about in a magazine article.

"I saw it in 'Reader's Digest' in 1963," Allen said. She sent off to the agency requesting a British pen pal. "I wrote her the day after Christmas and received an answer within a week."

They continued to write on a monthly, or sometimes bimonthly basis. "We were matched in interests, we both had four children at the time and liked knitting and general handicrafts," Allen said.

Their long-distance friendship has reaped a bonus, cashed in at their first meeting. "They (the Newtons) weren't strangers," Allen said. "We have talked to each other in 10- and 12-page letters."

She said she and Newton found they could just pick up their friendship shared through letters, and share the same experiences of friends who are not separated by an ocean.

"They're like family," Allen said.

"I've always loved English things," Allen said. Both she and Newton share an interest in the royal family.

"I'd watch anything that had to do with the coronation and investiture (of the Prince of Wales), staying up all night long. But I had a feeling of closeness, knowing that she (Newton) was watching it too," Allen said.

Sharing family crises and traumas are another common bond between Allen and Newton. Their children are about the same ages.

"She always put up with my mounds," Newton said. They would follow each other's family history through letters and photographs.

The tragedies also pulled the friends closer together. "I lost my daughter and Elaine had lost her niece," Allen said. "We would ask each other opinions but never gave advice. We let each other know the good, bad and otherwise little troubles we had."

over," Elaine said. "They do silly things at about the same time."

"Our two youngest sons are very much alike and are going through the same things," Elaine said.

She said both she and Allen are people watchers who also enjoy learning different things and having different experiences. "We're open to new experiences and it's fun to learn about people."

"They both have the same style of writing," Ken Newton, Elaine's husband, said. "They chatter and ramble on ... (and now) neither of them ever stop talking," he said.

"But we're both good listeners," his wife added.

She saved all of Allen's letters, photographs and brochures in a file box for her to see when she visit the Newtons in Great Britain.

"Now I don't say if I visit, it's when I visit," Allen said, although a departure date has not yet been planned.

The Newtons live in northeastern England, about 60 miles from Leeds, and although they have never moved, the county they live in has changed three times.

Putting faces together with names was another pleasurable experience for Mrs. Newton. "I've heard their names often enough (in Allen's letters) ... it's wonderful to see all of them."

Both pen pals agreed their correspondence has given them insight into people as well as their countries.

"Our countries are different and the same," Allen said. "We have different customs, but the people are the same. It's (writing) given us a change to grow, learn new ideas and new customs."

"You get another view (of a major event)," Elaine said. "You get a different kind of reporting on different sides of the Atlantic."

The couple planned their trip after Ken's retirement as an engineer for Imperial Chemical Industry. Their three-month holiday includes visits with relatives in Houston as well as western and eastern Canadian provinces.

The Newtons have traveled extensively around Great Britain before embarking on their North American trip. "We felt we had to get to know our own country really well before going out of it," Ken said. □

Gigi Amini, 11, of Upland finds ballet a good way of keeping on her toes. Amini hopes to compete July 10 - 14 in the national finals of the "America's Miss Charm" pageant.

Upland girl charms way into contest

By Tony Saavedra

Eleven-year-old Gigi Amini of Upland prefers ballet to break-dancing and would rather listen to the "Nutcracker Suite" than to Boy George or Michael Jackson.

In a generation of punkers, rockers, breakers and mods, Amini aspires only to become a prima ballerina.

"Ballet is just more graceful than break-dancing," explains Amini in an interview at her North Upland home. "It's much nicer for a girl to do. It's more feminine."

Amini will be taking her grace and skill to the 1984 national finals of "America's Miss Charm" competition next July in Washington, D.C.

A dance student and a veteran performer in local theater, Amini is one of three contestants picked from 422 girls to represent California in the age category for 10- to 12-year-olds. The competition is open to girls 4 to 25 years old.

America's Miss Charm Pageant is based in Jacksonville, N.C. and (Continued on page 35)

Decorators have their cake and have tools to ice it too

By Terri Tirella

Nails, boards, paint brushes and couplings sound like tools of a carpenter's trade, certainly not something to be found in the kitchen.

But people into cake decorating learn to use those specialized tools in classes offered by Upland and Rancho Cucamonga Recreation Departments.

Susie Davidson offers the six-week course in which interested would-be bakers can create artistic wonders with icing and cake.

"People with any talent at all can be semi-professionals after taking a class," Davidson said. At the first class meeting Davidson lectures. During the following five weeks students bring cakes to decorate.

"It's not just young girls and new mothers takking the class. We have grandmothers and men," she said. One male student is taking the class as therapy for his hands, he has multiple sclerosis.

"Cake decorating is a super hobby. It's inexpensive and after a basic class ... you can get a book (on different decorating techniques), take off and do your own thing," Davidson said.

Davidson said for an initial outlay of $20 for materials, cake decorators can tackle just about any project. In her classes students do a teddy bear cake, a chocolate cake with chocolate roses and leaves and learn how to make daisies and forget-me-not flowers.

In the intermediate class other flowers are taught, sweet peas, pansies, carnations, violets and decorating techniques people don't find on bakery cakes, according to Davidson. Decorating a wedding cake is also a part of the intermediate curriculum.

Students learn three dimensional decorating. "You use globs of icing ... I wouldn't let my kids eat it (the multi-dimensional decoration) but it's a good effect in decorating," she said.

She said she teaches several different flower making techniques because "anybody can make roses." Using different nails can create a variety of shapes and flower sizes. Students paint the icing flowers with food coloring for a more natural appearance.

Having the right tools make any job easier. Using modern plastic tubes or bags with couplings, cake decorators can easily change tips from writing, to flower or stem tips, or small and large leaf tips. "Once you work with the different tips you learn what they do," she said.

A wide variety of character cake pans are available, including Smurfs, Strawberry Shortcake and Sesame Street favorites. Many pans have optional uses rather than being limited to only one character.

"I use a horseshoe pan and turn it into a rainbow, or make a pair of cowboy pants, or cut it to make two Christmas stockings," she said.

Davidson, a resident of Alta Loma, became fascinated with cake decorating in the eighth grade. She thought she might like to give it a try but waited for several years before becoming a decorator and teacher. She's been teaching for three years.

Baking a good cake is the first step for a successful cake decorator. "It's

Lions no longer the only cats in town

By Terri Tirella

The Cucamonga District Lions Club is going to roar to new heights with the formation of two new community service organizations, the Rancho Cucamonga Lioness Club and the Rancho Cucamonga Breakfast Lions Club.

Lions, through Lions, Lioness and Leo (a coed club for high school students age 16 to 18) promote community service.

"It's Lions, Lionesses, and Leos all pulling together in the same way with a common bond," Jim Campbell said. Campbell is a Lion, and membership coordinator for the district.

As the community grows, so does the interest in the service club, according to Nancy Smith. Smith, soon to be a charter Lioness member, said she was infected by the enthusiasm from Lionesses in Ontario and Diamond Bar.

"They came and told us (at a community meeting) things they have done. The enthusiasm they had, their attitudes about life sparked you," she said.

"The self-gratification of being able to help someone else must make them feel great," she said. "I'd like to be able to do that (with the new Lioness Club) and have new friendships too."

The Rancho Cucamonga Lionesses still have not been chartered, they will have their next meeting May 10 in Lions Park Center, 9161 Base Line Road in Rancho Cucamonga, at 7:30 p.m.

Although the Lionesses get support from the Cucamonga District Lions Club, the women's group is a separate entity, according to Jim Hampton. Hampton is the liaison between the groups and will take over as president of the men's club in July.

The Lionesses will hold two more meetings before applying for its charter or going through other organizational procedures. It will meet again May 20 at Lions Community Center.

"Several of the women in the club are wives of Lions, but it's not necessary to be a wife of a Lion," Smith said. Women who are at least 18 years old and desire to do community service may join the Lioness Club.

"We have housewives and professional women ... the ages are widespread, grandmothers, mothers, daughters," she said. According to Smith, when the women gather together there are no age differences.

She said the Lionesses have garnered its membership by "word of mouth. Women asking friends and neighbors, women in the business in the community ... were invited to a meeting to hear about other Lioness Clubs."

The club will be deciding its goals at the next two meetings. "The Lioness Club has its own identity," Campbell said, explaining it can become involved in eyesight conservation programs, may contribute to the City of Hope or the House of Ruth. "These (philanthropies) are not cast in concrete. They (the Lionesses) may have more."

Campbell said programs can be geared to work with area youth. "If we can help the youth, help straighten out some of their problems at the source ... we wouldn't have the problems with drug abuse and alcohol."

For more information about the Lioness Club, call Smith at 981-0117 or 987-4234 evenings.

Men interested in joining the new Rancho Cucamonga Lion

Breakfast Club, which will meet bimonthly, should call Campbell at 980-1518 or 981-9546. The Cucamonga District Lions Club meets at Hens and Herefords on the second and fourth Mondays of the month at 7 p.m. For more information call Kevin Evans at 980-3145. □

Republican women to hold barbeque

The Chaffey Community Republican Women Federated's third annual barbeque and auction will be held Saturday, June 2 at the Great Western Rose Company, 430 E. 19th St. in Upland.

"Golden Expectations" is the theme for the dinner and will include a special salute to the 1984 Olympic Games. Entertainment will be provided by the Silver Fox Band, led by Bob Cheadle.

Ray Ferguson of Upland will be auctioneer. Silent auctions will be on display for bidding throughout the evening.

Funds raised at this event are to cover maintenance and rent for the year-round headquarters at 136 N. Second Ave. in Upland, manned solely by Republican volunteers.

Auction items are still being accepted for both the live and silent auctions. A receipt will be issued for each item donated. Suggested items for the live auction are art objects, paintings, hand-made afghans, sweaters and electrical appliances.

Items still needed for the silent tables are live plants, ceramics, placemat sets, and other miscellaneous items. Items should be tagged with donor's name, address and phone number, as well as a suggested "beginning" auction price.

People wishing to donate items may contact ways and means chairwoman Mary Bradley at 985-5842 or Republican Headquarters.

A printed catalog will be mailed in advance along with tickets. The event is open to the public. Dinner is being catered by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rippe of the Arbor Restaurant in Upland.

LIBRARY NEWS

By Pat Castaneda
Principal Librarian

Is your boss installing a LAN at the office, and you don't know what it is? Are you taking a data processing class where you have to turn in a paper on peripherals? Have you been thinking of adding a disk emulator to your home computer but can't find enough information to decide if you need one?

Well, the Upland Public Library has the answer to all these questions, as well as many others, in the new reference publication, "Management of Small Computer Systems," by Datapro.

Gathered into two large three-ring notebooks is information on every aspect of micro-and mini-computers. Articles from a variety of sources cover very specific topics such as the difference operating systems — CP/M, MS-DOS, UNIX, the programming languages used in microcomputers and their comparative strengths and weaknesses, software, and database management programs. There are frequently updated newsletters with information on the IBM PC.

Because "Management of Small Computer Systems" is geared to the manager who has to make decisions concerning new hardware and software, there is also a lot of background information one needs for a good understanding. For example, I found an excellent article on the various ways in which files are organized and records accessed on disks. A manager in a data processing environment doesn't need to know all the technical details of these subjects a programmer would know, but he does need a grasp of the principles involved so he can let programmers and vendors know his needs, and so he can talk to others intelligently about his system.

"Management of Small Computer Systems" allows one to get at this information in articles which are concise and non-technical.

A very strong area of coverage in this publication is small computer hardware. The survey of users of the various brands of computers would be of interest to anyone interested in purchasing new equipment. This survey lists results of an extensive questionnaire sent to readers of computer magazines who own micros. The survey contained questions on overall satisfaction, vendor support, speed of disk access, quality of documentation and satisfaction with software, among others. The results are reported by computer brand name, and they are reported in enough detail that you can draw your own conclusions about sizes of samples and responses. Since most equipment reviews in the computer magazines rely on the opinion of a single reviewer, I believe this survey has special value.

A shortcoming of "Management ..." is the fact that it covers only the more sophisticated micros. The Timex's and TI's and Vics it considers suitable for home use only are not covered. (You may, however, find very good consumer information on these smaller computers in various issues of "Consumer Reports" magazine.)

Also, some of the information was a little dated. Although we receive frequent update pages which have to be added to the notebooks and much dated information is removed each month, still the nature of a

COINS

By Gary L. Palmer
Copley News Service

Two coins that have been minted virtually without interruption for more than a century have passed from the Swedish numismatic scene.

The Scandinavian nation has decided the 5 ore and 25 ore no longer fit the country's needs. The two denominations are at odds with the Swedish decimal system — misfits from a numismatic system that no longer exists.

Now Sweden's smallest denomination is the 10 ore, equal to about 1.25 U.S. cents at current exchange rates.

Cost of producing the bronze 5-ore coin, even though its size was radically reduced in 1972, was well above its face value. And without the 5 ore, change could not be made for the 25-ore, so it was necessary to delete that coin as well.

The end of the 5-ore graphically illustrates the ravages of inflation in Sweden.

The ore denomination dates from the first king of modern Swedish history, Gustav Vasa (1521-1560).

At that time the ore was a substantial silver piece representing one-eighth of a mark.

The 5-ore denomination appeared in 1690 as a silver piece, but already it was smaller than the 1 ore of the previous century.

The bronze 5 ore first appeared in 1857, but a silver 25 ore made its debut in 1855, during a period of transition for Swedish coinage.

The country was going from a daler-skilling-ducat-mark system divisible into minor coins of sixths and sixteenths, into a decimal system.

Decimalization was completed in 1873, and the 25-ore coin contained silver until 1962.

Now precious metals are used in Swedish coins only for commemorative pieces.

Two in sterling silver were issued last year and one is in the making for 1984 to commemorate a major international meeting this year in Stockholm.

Russia released a unique coin this year — a one ruble to pay homage to the first Russian printer, Ivan Fedorov, on the 400th anniversary of his death.

Fedorov, born in 1510, was the founder of book printing in Russia and the Ukraine. He died in 1583.

Along with Pyotr Mstislavets he prepared the first Russian printed book, "Apostol."

In 1574 he printed the first Russian "ABC Book." When in his 70s, in 1580-81, he printed the first complete Bible in Slavonic.

Fedorov was also a master gunsmith and inventor. He designed the multi-barreled mortar.

Obverse of the 31-millimeter coin shows a bearded three-quarter length figure holding a printing block in his left hand and examining a printed sheet in his right hand.

The Cyrillic text inscription reads: RUSSKII PERVOPECHATNIK 1510 1583 INVAN FEDOROV. The latter two words are in very old Cyrillic fancy letters. The translation is

"Russian first printer, 1510-1583, Ivan Fedorov." The coin's reverse depicts the USSR coat of arms dividing CC-CP (USSR). Centered below is the denomination of the coin and the 1983 date.

PHOTO TIPS

By Holt Confer
Copley News Service

"Giving Birth" is the title of a new picture book by photojournalist Mary Motley Kalergis. In this book, the photographer has taken us from the late stages of pregnancy through the actual birth and on to shots of new fathers holding their sons and daughters.

There is a tendency today to make the birth of a child a family affair, with the husband and sometimes even the older children being present to share the experience. And as with other memorable events in a lifetime, families are beginning to document their births on film just as they photograph weddings, holidays and anniversaries.

The book is very graphic, all the pain and mess (I couldn't think of a better word) associated with giving birth are shown in Mary Kalergis' photographs.

When the book arrived from the publisher, I looked through it, then decided to show it to a variety of people I knew — just to get a gut reaction to how they felt about seeing this type of subject presented photographically. As the ages of the viewers (both men and women) increased, there was definitely less interest in seeing pictures of an actual delivery. Simply because it wasn't too many years ago that even husbands, let alone children, were not allowed to have any part in the actual delivery.

The younger people (under 35) all seemed to know someone who had experienced a "family" birth and often photography was a part of the event. "I think it's a great idea," was the general consensus of opinion from this age group.

I suspect the market potential for this book rests with the newly marrieds rather than with anyone approaching

The article on disk emulators was very dated, and information on the IBM PC did not reflect its spectacular take-over of the market. The only way to obtain more recent information, however, would be to read many computer magazines.

Microcomputers probably represent the most volatile, changing area of data processing, and even the computer magazines can be dated in only a few months. Hobbyists and professionals will find Datapro's "Management of Small Computer Systems" one of their best sources of recent information.

Most Chardonnays aren't very good

By Dan Berger
Copley News Service

Wrapping up loose ends ...
Oh, the vagaries of $8 Chardonnays. I had five of them the other day and rated them all OK, but four of them were, alas, nothing special. Such is the cost of good Chardonnay these days.

The best of the lot was an attractive wine I had tasted initially six months ago. I liked it then and said so in print. Now it's even better.

The wine is 1982 Stratford Chardonnay, made by a joint partnership of California negociants from San Francisco. The wine is eminently drinkable, characteristic of the variety and excellently priced below $8.

Facts from the Napa Valley Grape Growers publication, Forecast:

— Sixty percent of the wine sold in 1.5-liter bottles or larger is white wine; about 15 percent of the oversize bottles are filled with red.

— According to Ed Everett, editor/publisher of The Wine Trade, of wines selling for more than $4 per bottle, 50 percent are red; of wines selling for above $8 a bottle, 67 percent are red.

After reading these figures, Phil Hiaring, editor of the respected publication Wines and Vines, said, "Maybe what we should have instead of a gallonage breakdown is a dollar breakdown by color sales."

Speaking of wine sales, Louis Gombert, a leading wine industry market consultant, forecasts that sales of California wine will increase between 3 and 6 percent in 1984, welcome news after 1982 and 1983 when California wine sales were largely flat.

However, the imports remain a strong category. Impact, New York-based wine and spirits industry newsletter, released figures showing that all imported wine increased shipments 7.2 percent to the United States in 1983.

Those wishing to learn about the wines of Burgundy may be interested in a series of two-day courses being offered around the country by a French trade group from that region, designated CIB — an acronym of a complicated French name.

The Los Angeles session will meet Saturday and Sunday; dates for the San Diego session are May 19-20. Cost of the two-day session, that includes tastings of Burgundies made just for this event, is $250 per person. For details of the San Diego event, call Barry Fischer, 619-481-3360. For details on any of the sessions scheduled around the country, call Fred Le Comte at 818-792-6297.

Joseph Phelps, the well-regarded Napa Valley wine maker, has released three wines of charm — a 1983 Johannisberg Riesling Early Harvest ($7.50), a non-vintage Vin Rouge ($4.50), and a 1979 Zinfandel Napa Valley ($6.75).

The lemony, varietal aroma in the Riesling combined with just 1.2 percent residual sugar makes it appealing with food; the Vin Rouge is a delicate, light-styled Pinot Noir-type offering that I'd love to find on a restaurant wine list; the Zinfandel has the claretlike spice I love to find in Zinfandel.

children going for the gold

As more than 50 youngsters prepared for the first Rancho Cucamonga Tiny Tot Decathlon Saturday at Vineyard Park, some of their parents may have been humming the theme of "Chariots of Fire."

The children, ranging in age from 3 to 6, displayed their athletic prowess to a crowd of more than 100 spectators.

"Parents were really supportive (of their children) and did a lot of coaching and helped them with the events," said Kevin Evans, recreation supervisor in Rancho Cucamonga.

He said parents would ask the decathlon staff what the next event was so they could tutor their Olympic hopeful in whatever skill was needed or work on competition strategy.

"It was hilarious (seeing) parents trying to show their kids the crab or spider walk," Evans said.

The decathlon consisted of a plastic

(soft drink) liter bottle toss; a frog jump, where participants tried to imitate their amphibious friends; a 25-yard dash; a Nerf ball toss; a long jump; somersault race; the "ever popular" sack race; a crawling race, a crab walk and a spider walk.

"We had a group participation in a Tootsie Pop Lick-off contest that went over real big," Evans said.

Parents were included in the Tootsie Roll Lick-off, according to Evans. "On the count of three, everyone started licking and whoever got to the Tootsie Roll center first won."

Children in the 3- to 4 year-old division seemed to enjoy participating in the different events, but didn't appear to be too concerned about the competition.

"Everyone got caught up in the events of the day," he said. "In any type of event like this it's likely you may get a few over-zealous parents."

However the 5- and 6 year-olds, since participating in the annual Big Wheel competitions and Ace T-ball teams, were more aware of what winning was all about.

Not many events are geared for tiny tot ages, according to Evans. "We got a good response from parents who like seeing a program for younger age children. We have about 200 participants in our annual Big Wheel Race and have found there is an interest (in toddler events) and that the events are well received."

He said he has already had inquiries as to when the next decathlon will be held and what events will be held. "Parents want to start working their child out now."

He said October is the target date for the next decathlon, depending on the weather. "The little ones got tired toward the latter events, so we want to schedule (the next decathlon) so it's not very hot out."

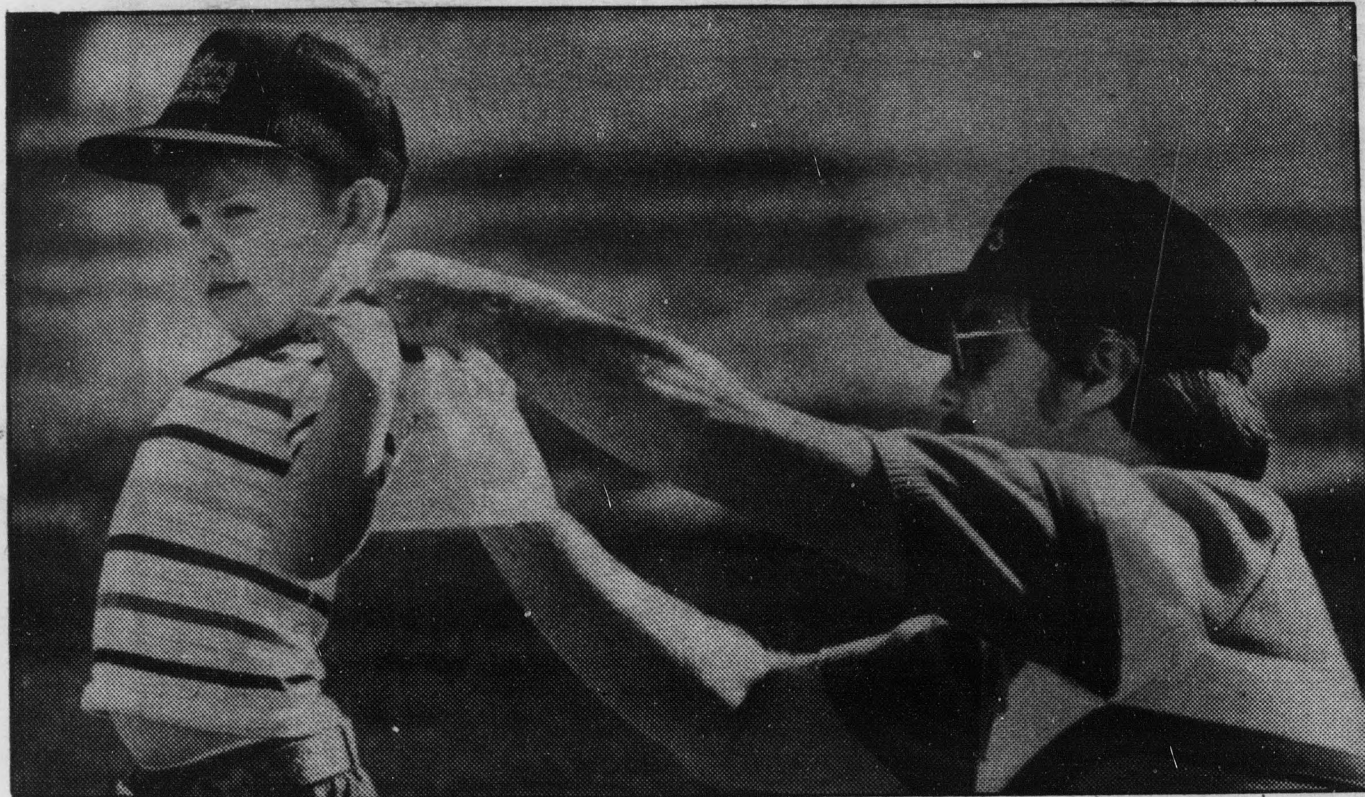

One mother told Evans her son was so excited about a medal he had won he wore it to bed.

All participants received ribbons. In addition, the first five winners in each event were awarded ribbons. Total earned points for each individual determined the Olympic champions.

Each registered decathlon contestant was eligible for prizes in a drawing. "Carl's Jr., Yogurt and More, and Rancho Sports were merchants who donated either merchandise or gift certificates," Evans said.

Overall winners in Division 1, 3 to 4 year-olds were Michael Hangca, of Rancho Cucamonga, first; Craig Crawford, second; Brent Eggers, third; Nick Smiderle, fourth; and Ronnie Coleman fifth.

Winners in the age 5 to 6 divisions were Donte Robinson, of Rancho Cucamonga, first; Ryan Lawrey, second; Sandra Torrez, third; Eric Eichenberger, fourth; and Eric Rich, fifth. □

PETS

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.
Copley News Service

Q. Our female poodle-schnauzer mix dog licks and bites at her rectum frequently. She also has begun scooting her rear end across the ground a lot.

Our neighbor told us that the dog has worms. Is this correct? Is there anything we can do to end this very annoying behavior?

A. The description you give of your dog's annoying behavior is indicative of anal gland impaction or infection.

All dogs are born with a pair of anal glands or sacs situated just under the skin on each side of the opening of the rectum.

Authorities differ in opinion as to the function of anal glands. Some state that the glands aid bowel movement by lubricating the rectum. Others state that the odor secreted by these glands enables a dog to determine the sex of another dog upon meeting. It is possible that the glands are vestigial scent glands left over from primitive days when dogs used the glands to frighten potential attackers such as skunks do today.

The anal glands normally secrete a watery, brownish fluid which empties into the rectum. Occasionally the openings from these glands become clogged and a very foul-smelling mass accumulates. The glands may appear to be enlarged because of the bulging from the accumulation.

Although anal gland impaction occurs in all breeds of dogs, it is more common in small dogs.

Anal gland impaction often causes much pain and discomfort. Others signs besides the ones you have described include a very foul-smelling rectal area, listlessness, dull eyes, constipation, and seborrhea over the back.

Treatment of anal gland impaction usually involves manual expression of the glands by a knowledgeable individual. After expression, an oily antibiotic solution should be infused in the sacs.

If left untreated the glands may become infected and abscess. These abscesses are usually quite painful. They will eventually rupture if not treated.

If improvement is not noticed after several treatments or if the problem is recurring, the anal glands can be removed surgically. Dogs do not need their anal glands to live normal, happy lives. Prompt treatment of anal gland impaction should be given to minimize the discomfort experienced by the dog.

Q. What is the best method to take a dog's temperature? What is the normal temperature for a dog?

A. Obtaining a dog's temperature is usually not difficult. It is usually taken rectally — not orally, since most dogs would bite the thermometer.

The thermometer should be shaken down and the bulb lightly lubricated with petroleum jelly or baby oil. The muzzles of uncooperative dogs should be tied to avoid

what we might call middle age.

Mary Kalergis was teaching photography at the University of Charlottesville in Virginia, when she was asked to photograph the birth experience of several friends. As the idea for a photo essay jelled, the author began to look for more willing subjects. The book is the distillation of working with more than 45 couples.

I looked through this book at least a half a dozen times because something about it bothered me at first, and I couldn't quite determine just what it was. Eventually, I concluded that the layout was at fault. The essay is obviously broken into sections — first there are shots of the pregnant woman; then there are shots as the birth is about to begin; the actual delivery scenes are next; then the mothers-fathers with the newly born infant; a series of new father portraits; and finally new baby portraits.

Now while this may appear to be a logical sequence, I found it annoying to see the same family appear in several different sections without any continuity. Personally, I would have enjoyed this photo essay a whole lot more if I could have seen one family's experience from beginning to end. I believe I could have participated (vicariously, of course) easier if there had been that family continuity in each of the picture sequences. It always seemed that just as I was about to be a part of the event and sympathize with one set of parents, suddenly I was with strangers and had to get reacquainted all over again.

Now if you're an expectant set of parents and have given some thought to photographing the birth of your child — either by having the husband perform the task or by hiring someone else to do it for you — a look through Mary Kalergis's book might certainly give you some idea of what you can expect in results. It will certainly provide some ideas on the type of shots available during this very personal time.

Mary Kalergis has done her photo essay in black and white ... and while

LOCAL HYPNOTHERAPISTS PIONEER SELF CONTROL PROGRAMS

Highly successful weight loss and smoking cessation

UPLAND—In the quarter of a century since the American Medical Association approved Clinical Hypnosis in 1958, hundreds of thousands of people have lost weight, stopped smoking and achieved their goals through this valuable process. Hundreds of these people have been helped through the innovative and highly successful techniques pioneered by Upland Hypnotherapists Steve Zagorin and Warren Hawkins.

Zagorin, President of BEGIN, inc. explained his success in this way: "For many years ignorance and superstition have combined to create a mysterious veil around hypnosis and in doing so, its true nature and benefits have been hidden in half-truths and fears.

Hypnosis, is in fact, the simplest, most natural way to stretch the mind to enhance human potential for personal and professional growth. There is no other single technique that holds so many possibilities." Zagorin adds that each client seen at BEGIN, inc. receives sessions in education, behavior modification and aversion conditioning, in addition to hypnotherapy. "The only people we can't help are those who don't really want to change."

Zagorin is a graduate of the American Institute of Hypnotherapy and is the founder of Smokers Last Chance, a highly successful smoking cessation program, which remains as the cornerstone for the expanded range of programs that are now being offered at BEGIN, inc.

Hawkins, who studied under world renown Hypnotherapist Gil Boyne, has most recently been involved as a sports hypnotherapist, consulting with a prominent professional boxer and other local athletes.

Zagorin states that the primary concern at BEGIN, inc. is to design an individual program suited to each client's needs. "Our methods have virtually limitless possibilities in helping our clients achieve positive results in any area they desire."

All sessions are private and conducted personally by either Zagorin or Hawkins. All programs include instruction in self hypnosis and a free self-hypnosis reinforcement tape.

BEGIN, inc. is located at 1150 N. Mountain, Suite 112, in Upland. Additional information and appointments can be obtained by calling (714) 981-3096.

being bitten.
Standard mercury thermometers should be left in the rectum for two to three minutes.

A dog's normal rectal temperature is 100.5 F to 102.5 F (38 C to 39 C). Slight temperature elevations may be seen during hot weather, after periods of excitement or strenuous activity, or following eating.

Temperatures about or below the normal range often indicate serious diseases and dogs with abnormal temperatures should be examined by a veterinarian as soon as possible. You can help your veterinarian in deciding whether an office visit is required by taking your dog's temperature prior to telephoning his office. Your pets should have their own thermometer.

Questions should be mailed to R.G. Elmore, D.V.M., Points on Pets, Copley News Service, in care of The Daily Report.

Scots send 19 to CIF prelims

By Ron Witt

Upland High School will be well represented in the California Interscholastic Federation (CIF) 3A track prelims Saturday at Valencia High School in Placentia.

Coach Bob Loney's Upland squad qualified 11 boys in seven events, while rival Alta Loma advanced two in a pair of events in last week's Baseline League finals on the Highlanders' track.

On the girls' side of the ledger, both schools qualified eight squad members, Upland in six events and Alta Loma in eight.

Miler Ken Feters, pole vaulter Mike Smith and the Highlander mile relay team lead Upland boys into the action, which begins at noon. All three were league champions.

Feters, the slender senior, captured his third mile crown in 4:32.5. He also took the two-mile title in 10:05.1 but said he would not run the race at CIF.

Smith and John Kufita of the Highlanders finished 1-2 in the pole vault, soaring 14-1 and 13-0, respectively.

Thomas Allums, Lance Hollis, Cory McCroskey and Cliff Gill come off a swift 3:27.8 clocking that gave Upland mile relay honors.

Allums and Hollis join Tony Brown and Nick Skvarna as third-place qualifiers in the 440 relay (45.2).

Remaining Upland boys slated for CIF competition are Scott Maddux, second in the shot put at 50-5, and Larry Jackson, third in the long jump at 21-10½.

Upland girls' hopes center around distance runner Beth McGrann, a double champion qualifier in both the mile (5:28.5) and two-mile (12:07.4).

Other Highlander qualifiers include runners-up Glenda Smith, a freshman, in the 880 (2:27.8), Krista Atencio in the mile (5:32.6), Trish Schell in the 110 low hurdles (17.4) and the mile relay team comprised of Rene Holiday, Michelle Van Buskirk, Joyce Brown and Smith, which ran 4:23.2 in the BL finals.

Karlene Pope of Upland advances off her 4-10 high jump, good for third place.

For Alta Loma, Sprinter Robert Dewar and weight man Bill Bryan carry the Braves' colors into the prelims.

Bryan was the third qualifier in the shot put at 49-7½, and Dewar ran third in the 220 at 22.7. Bryan was also third in the discus, but his mark of 142-6 failed to meet the minimum standard of 155-0.

Junior Ruthie Rush leads Alta Loma girls into competition. She qualified first in both the long (16-11½) and triple jumps (35-2½) and also anchored the mile relay team to victory in 1:17.0. Jill Binnall, Angie Vallier and Stephanie Harkey are other members of the championship relay unit.

Several more Alta Loma girls qualified with third-place performances. They are Harkey in the 440 (1:03.0), Patty Woodside in the two-mile (12:47.1), Yvette Perry in the 110 low hurdles (17.5), Jenny McClure in the 330 low hurdles (51.0), Karen Sellers in both the long (16-4) and triple jumps (34-10), and the 440 relay team.

Scott heads toughest mile field to date in Pepsi meet

One of the finest invitational mile fields ever assembled on American soil will be competing in the Pepsi Invitational Sunday at UCLA's Drake Stadium in Westwood.

The Pepsi is the most important meet leading up to the Final Olympic Trials in June. Action starts at 11:45 a.m.

In addition to the mile, the Pepsi meet will also feature some of the biggest names in American track and field. Carl Lewis, Mary Decker and Edwin Moses are among of the top names scheduled to compete.

The mile, always a hallmark event at the Pepsi, is better this year than ever before. Potential Olympic gold medalist Steve Scott, the American record holder and second fastest all-time, heads the entries. Scott will face the third, fourth and fifth fastest milers in U.S. history, Todd Harbour (3:50.34), Jim Spivey (3:50.59) and Tom Byers (3:50.84).

The field is further bolstered by the world's number two 800 meter man of 1983, Joaquim Cruz of Brazil, and the nation's number one ranked high school miler from 1983, Mike Stahr, now a freshman at Arizona State.

Scott, who prepped at Upland High School under Bob Loney, has been the top-ranked miler in the U.S. seven years in a row and has been rated second in the world the past two seasons. He is a four-time TAC national champion, the 1980 final Olympic Trials winner and the 1978 NCAA champion.

Besides holding the American record in the mile, Scott also holds the record at 1500 and 2000 meters. He was second in the World Athletics Championship 1500 meters last summer in Helsinki, Finland.

Harbour, the collegiate record holder in the mile, recently surprised a world class 5000 meter field at the Mt. SAC Relays winning in 13:30.57, the fastest time in the world this year. Three times Harbour was a runner-up in the NCAA 1500 meters, and in 1979 he was second in the Pan American Games.

Cruz won the bronze medal in the World Championships last summer in the 800 and he was ranked second worldwide. In 1981 he equalled Jim Ryun's world junior record at 1:44.3 and last year he ran a best of 1:44.04. A sophomore at Oregon, Cruz has already this season set a collegiate dual meet record of 3:37.72 for 1500 meters.

Lewis, a triple world champion, will compete in the long jump against a superb field which includes Ontario's Larry Myricks, history's third farthest leaper.

Decker will attempt to regain her world

She's come a long way in a short while

By Charles Bentley

In an era of specialization, she doesn't like to play favorites. Angela Carbone likes to do a little of everything. In gymnastics, that is. She doesn't follow the line of high school athletes trying to be a power forward or a free safety or a 1,600-meter runner. Sure, she specializes in gymnastics. But that's the same as majoring in philosophy. The choices are such that just being a gymnast, especially a good one, doesn't mean she's limited. And Angela Carbone is good at the things she does. Last month the 15-year-old Rancho Cucamonga resident traveled to Phoenix to compete at the United States Gymnastic Federation's Class II Regional Championships. On hand, besides several of her KIPS Gymnastics teammates from Fullerton, were the best intermediate level gymnasts from Arizona, California, New Mexico, Nevada and Utah. While it's true that just making it to the senior division (ages 15 and up) regional finals means you've got talent, even Carbone herself now admits that her winning the All-Around title proved a big surprise. "Yeah, it was a surprise alright," laughs Carbone. "I know it was to me, and I think it was to everyone else. My coach ... well, I think it even surprised him. He won't admit it, telling me he always had confidence in me. But I think it wasn't something anyone really expected." Carbone turned in third place performances on the balance beam and the uneven bars, finished second in the vault and first in the floor exercise. In all, she posted a total score of 71.65, good enough to even startle the folks back home. "I was going to call my mom (from Phoenix), but I wanted to make her sweat it a bit," she now admits, an impish grin on her face. "They couldn't come watch me, but I knew they were waiting to hear. I just kinda sprung it on them when I got back." Actually, the idea of gymnastics in the Carbone family isn't new. The fact that Angela has come so far in just 4½ years of formal training is impressive. But if it hadn't been for her older sister Lori, someone else would be holding that regional trophy.

Colt tourney set Saturday

Upland High School and Memorial Park will serve as the sites for the sixth annual Upland Colt League Invitational Tournament, the official opener of the season. Six of the 14 teams in the tournament are from Upland, while Rancho Cucamonga and Ontario each have four entries in the three-day tournament that begins Saturday. According to tournament chairman Cal King, opening games will be played at both sites beginning at 10 a.m. The consolation and championship title games are scheduled for Monday at 5 and 8 p.m. at Memorial Park. record in the mile against a field that includes a resurgent former Olympian, Jan Merrill. Moses, winner of his last 87 races, will be pushed by Andre Phillips, the third fastest hurdler in history. The pole vault will feature three of the four highest performers in history. Indoor (19-2½) and outdoor (19-1½) record holder Thierry Vigneron of France will face countryman Pierre Quinon (19-1) and Billy Olson of the U.S. (19-¼). Other top athletes in the Pepsi met include sprinters Calvin Smith and griddler Ron Brown; World Championship gold medalists Imrich Bugar (discus) and Greg Foster (110 hurdles); triple jumper Willie Banks, shot putter Dave Laut and Montclair's Dan Ripley in the pole vault.

School), was into gymnastics and it just looked like something I really wanted to do. Then I got a chance to go to a lesson, and I knew it was what I wanted," says Carbone.

When the family moved from Glendora to Alta Loma, Angela got a chance to join the Somis Gym program, the start of what has become a very successful interest.

Although a sophomore in high school, you won't find Carbone's picture in the ALHS yearbook. Because of her interest in gymnastics, she had to go cross-district to Montclair to find an athletic program that included her sport.

"Yeah, I guess it does seem kind of crazy. I really wish I didn't have to go back and forth. I like Montclair, but it doesn't seem right. I guess since no one any closer seemed to care about gymnastics anymore, I have to make the best of it," says Carbone.

Some of that is made up by the fact she's now a member of the KIPS Team, described as one of the top clubs in Southern California. Its Class I and Class II teams are proud owners of their respective state team championships, helping to prove the point.

But wherever and whenever you find Carbone, bets are you'll find her practicing. And not just on one phase, but on every piece of equipment that's handy. "I know most people hate to work out, but I love to practice," she insists. "I spend four or five hours a day, five days a week in a gym." But getting her to pick a favorite discipline, that's not something she's willing to do just yet. "I know how it sounds, but I love it all. Some of it's scary, some of it's hard, but I really do love it all. I love the floor, the bars...I just don't like to pick one," she says

Construction begun on office complex

Heralded as a "professional office complex for the year 2000... today," construction on phase one of Barton Plaza has begun at Foothill Boulevard and Haven Avenue in Rancho Cucamonga.

It is situated on 13 acres within the 300-acre Rancho Cucamonga Business Park.

The plaza will encompass 400,000 square feet and include two four-story and two six-story office buildings and a four-level parking structure accommodation 1,300 cars.

Within the office and commercial complex, office space for attorneys, related professional services, banking facilities, and restaurants are planned to support the new Foothill Community Law and Justice Center currently under construction and adjacent to the Barton Plaza.

Barton Plaza is being designed to offer its tenants the ultimate in "intelligent" office systems, said officials. Advanced computer networks and telecommunications systems are being investigated to assist tenants in meeting the emerging "office of the future" requirements, they added. The entire complex will be linked together through the use of a connecting landscaped walkway. The central plaza between the two six-story buildings will serve as the focal point to provide an outdoor area for all tenants and visitors.

Phase One of the project is scheduled for completion next fall. The developer is Barton Development Co.,

Rancho Cucamonga. The architects are Simonoff/Hawkins and Associates, Newport Beach. A model of the project is on display at Barton Development Co., 8409 Utica Ave., Rancho Cucamonga.

Upland girl charms her way into contest finals

offers up to $50,000 in college scholarships, provided by the Performing Arts Association in Jacksonville and Peace College in Raleigh. The pageant began locally in 1972 and went national in 1981.

Contestants from 47 states are competing this year, said Glenda Bailey, executive director. However, only 12 states offer preliminary contests. Consequently, many finalists are picked through their resumes. Amini is one of these finalists.

She's an "A and B student" at St. Joseph's Catholic School in Upland and has taken dancing lessons since she was 3 years old, said her mother, Joan.

"She's a serious dance student, although she has taken some Polynesian dancing as a recreation," said Joan. At first, dancing was a way to keep young Amini busy while her older brother attended kindergarten.

But the youngster's belly dancing made the public take notice.

"I'm telling you, they went through the roof," remembered Joan.

Amini shimmied through her childhood years, later taking ballet courses and appearing in three productions of the West End Opera Association.

Dance scholarships over the years have helped to pay for her lessons, costing "thousands and thousands of dollars," said Joan.

But now Amini is faced with new expenses.

"Miss Charm" contestants must pay a sponsor fee of $175 and finance their own transportation.

The Amini's are ardently seeking donations from local clubs and businesses to help buy the girl what they believe is a chance for stardom, a chance to be discovered.

Contributions can be sent to Amini at P.O. Box 1964, Upland, Calif., 91786.

Create artistic wonders with cake, icing in six easy lessons

got to taste good and come out of the pan. You'd be surprised at how many people leave lumps in the batter or cook the cake too long. A lot don't know how to get it out of the pan," she said.

Even if a cake tastes rotten, making it look good will make it taste better, she said. "Once I ran over a cake (with a car on her way to a cake decorating class). I iced it and sold it at a garage sale for $5."

She said the keys to making a professional-looking cake are putting it on a board with a doily, controlling pressure when icing the cake, the consistency of the icing and the angle of the frosting bag when decorating.

Students in Davidson's classes can't seem to eat their cakes fast enough. "They take cakes to preschools or schools, or have hubby take it to work... it can be given away pretty easily," she said.

Cathy Peters, who lives in Alta Loma, is in an advanced cake decorating class. She started her cake decorating career with cakes for her children and their schools.

"I've done cakes for wedding showers and baby showers for relatives," Peters said. Being able to share her cake decorating talents "makes me feel good."

For Donna Krupp, cake decorating was a canvas for her creative aspirations. "I have a minimum amount of talent and I want to stretch it to the maximum... it (cake decorating) takes patience but it's not that hard."

Davidson said some students have been able to lend their talents to friends at work. Co-workers are able to save money on cakes for the frequent office parties by paying a friend for making the cake. It costs less for materials and having a friend decorate a cake than buying a ready-made version in a bakery.

Other students have found careers with their decorating skills. Two are decorating cakes in ice cream bakeries, another is considering going into the bakery business. "One of my students took the class to make her own wedding cake," she said.

Classes at Rancho Cucamonga Recreation will begin on June 25; for Upland Recreation classes will start June 26. Davidson also offers cake decorating classes at Sweet Mercantile Co., 8637 Base Line in Rancho Cucamonga. A new class will begin in mid-May.

However, the ERB has determined that the project may conflict with adopted land-use objectives and policies of the City and/or to create an aesthetically offensive site (Ref.: EAR-590).

CONDITIONAL USE PERMIT NO. CUP-83-17/MODIFICATION #1 and ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT REPORT NO. EAR-574 to consider a request for modification of an approved Conditional Use Permit No. CUP-83-17, allowing the development of a PLANNED INTEGRATED BUSINESS CENTER (CONDOMINIUM OFFICES - PID-2) consisting of fifteen (15) buildings (12 one-story and 3 two-stories), with three (3) WAIVERS from Chapters 9450 and 9452 of the Upland Municipal Code (UMC) as follows:

ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT: The proposed project is a residential for a 2770-unit approved (CUP-78-17/EAR-353). An Environmental Impact Report was accepted by the City for said project with the finding that the project will have the potential to adversely affect its environs by reason of street vacation. The City, however, adopted a statement of "overriding considerations" that the beneficial effects of the project outweighed potential adverse effects perceived. The ERB recommends re-acceptance of E.I.R. #EAR-353 and Reaffirmation of adopted statement of overriding consideration (Ref.: EAR-574).

This public hearing will be conducted pursuant to the provisions of Part IV - Zoning Regulations, and Part V - Subdivision Regulations, Article IX of the Upland Municipal Code and Sections 65300-65800 of the Government Code and Section 66451.3 of the Subdivision Map Act of the State of California.
